DISCORD OVER MUSIC

Harmony in New York Avenue Church Out of Tune.

ALL ABOUT A SALARIED CHOIR

Elders in Favor of Congregational Singing Resign.

WHAT OPPONENTS SAY

Considerable gossip has been occasioned by an apparent misunderstanding among the members of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church over the question of whether the church should return to the old system of congregational singing or continue to have a paid choir, such as was introduced several years ago.

As a result it is understood that a deacon and four elders, who held to the congregational singing cause, resigned, and their places were filled by the election of others favorable to choir music. Those who resigned were Mr. John W. Foster, ex-Secretary of State; Mr. A. J. Halford, Mr. John Randolph and Mr. W. B. Robinson, elders, and Mr. Charles E. Foster, deacon. Those chosen to fill the places thus vacated were Justice Harlan of the United States Supreme Court, General J. C. Brockbridge, Mr. Charles H. Fishbaugh and Dr. James A. Freer as elders and Mr. Bruce J. Moses as deacon.

Dr. Radcliffe Wanted a Choir.
According to the withdrawing side the difference grew out of the determination of the pastor, Rev. Wallace J. Radcliffe, to change the form of music from congregational with organ accompaniment and led by a precursor to a quartet choir. It is declared that when this change was first suggested that eight of the ten members then composing the session were opposed to it, but in 1898, when the choir was organized, the change was permitted with the understanding, however, that the increased cost of the music should not be a charge upon the revenues of the church. This understanding, it is declared, was made a part of the by-laws, but at the close of that church year it was found that the trustees had paid a sum for music in excess of which they were authorized to expend. The annual meeting, it is stated on the authority mentioned, voted down the recommendation of the trustees, and subsequently an agreement entered into by the council of the church, comprising its three official bodies, was entered into, providing that the extra cost of music should be defrayed by private subscription.

It is declared that the close of another year found the conditions described still existing, and therefore a church meeting was held, at which an agreement was made to continue the employment of the choir upon the personal assurance of one of the members that the additional cost would be provided for outside the church revenues.

Pay From Few Rents Proposed.

It is further alleged that the trustees then determined to propose that they be authorized to pay the total cost of the music out of the proceeds from few rents, which, in the meantime, had been increased generally 25 per cent. This proposition, it is declared, was made at the annual meeting after a conference in the council of the church. As a result of this it is said the resignations of six elders were handed in. Judge Andrew C. Bradley and Mr. Joseph R. Deebie, being the other two besides those named, and who technically resigned by declining to stand for reelection, it is further asserted that after the church meeting a proposition was made for a conference between the opposing forces for the purpose of considering the question of the relations of the church with the choir, but this was declined.

Declarations of Choir Champions.

On the other side it is declared with loud emphasis that before Dr. Radcliffe accepted the call to the pastorate five years ago he was assured by the committee that he would be given every facility for conducting the services along the progressive lines which he desired and which he pointed out, and that he came with that understanding. It was further declared by the choir adherents that sentiment in the church was divided as to the desirability of changing the song service by the congregation, led by a precursor, to music by a salaried choir, but that Dr. Radcliffe, in having a resolution passed by the session of elders favoring the change.

Regarding the question of expenses, the choir advocates state that at first the trustees could not see their way clear to appropriate an amount sufficient to cover the cost of a salaried choir, but that Dr. Radcliffe went ahead with his plan, trusting that the necessary funds would be secured from an outside source. It was further stated that the choir had been paid in the neighborhood of $2,000 to pay the choir, and about $1,000 additional was secured by subscriptions.

Claim That Congregation Approved.

It was further stated that the trustees in their annual report this year had announced that the church had no property in a financial way that hereafter the entire cost of the choir could be borne from the regular church revenues. There was strong opposition to this course among some of the church officers, it was said, and a joint meeting of the deacons, elders and trustees was called to consider the matter. At this meeting it was decided, so it is stated, to leave the question to a vote of the congregation, all agreeing to abide by the decision so rendered. The vote was taken, and the congregation decided unanimously, it is declared, to continue the choir and to pay for it out of the regular church revenues.

It was further declared that the New York Avenue Church, which is a general order concerning the government of cemeteries on the island. His action is based on the recommendation of the judicial board and the board of health. It is provided that all cemeteries and all extensions of cemeteries constructed from public funds shall be civil in character, and that on or before June 30 next each municipality shall provide within its limits at least one civil cemetery, which shall be available to the burial of all persons who die in the municipality. Graves or lots in such cemeteries may be sold for the interment of the remains of individuals or families, but a sufficient area must be set apart for the free interment and proper burial of the remains of the poor and indigent, and no person shall be buried in a cemetery now in use and all disturbances are prohibited after the 30th of June except under prescribed conditions, chief of which is that in certain cases new interments may be made when possible without disturbing the remains of human beings previously buried.

Inquiry for Dead Men's Relatives.

Inspector Boardman has received a letter from J. L. Kolp, corner of 10th and Burtonwood streets, Philadelphia, inquiring about relatives of George E. Dates, who died in that city Tuesday, Mr. Kolp says he understands Dates, who left considerable property and stock, had relatives who are employed in one of the government departments in this city.

Hamilton, who applied to the District Commissioners several weeks ago on behalf of the Union Trust and Storage Company for an approval of a subterranean vault, has been informed by the Commissioners that, in view of the importance of the question and of the opinion of their attorney, it is a good case for a judicial test.

Three New Brigadier Generals.

Representative Grosvenor of Ohio has introduced a bill authorizing the President to appoint three volunteer officers as brigadier generals, with a view to their retirement. The bill is an administrative measure, having been presented by Mr. Grosvenor after conference with administration officials, and at their request. It is designed to benefit Gen. Joseph Wheeler, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee and Gen. James H. Wilson, all of whom were officers in the regular army and were given rank as brigadier general in the regular service and subsequently retired.

Qualifications of Applicants.

The following statement was issued concerning the appointments: "Of the additional positions created by the bill over a score are very minor and subordinate, at salaries of but $300 a year. A few of the positions will be filled by promotion. Certain employees taken on during the past year, it is declared, are below their qualifications, in the expectation of a better recognition if an opportunity should come. Irrespective of promotions, however, the particular positions open to appointment would not appear from a cursory examination of the bill. Many of these created are, in effect, already in existence and filled by employees detailed from other divisions of the library, owing to the unequal pressure of work. Some thirty-nine employees are now working in positions different from those to which they are appointed by law. The effect of the bill will be, in part, simply to confirm these employees in their present positions. This will be true, for instance, in the copyright office, in which only eight places will be filled by new appointment.

"The classification of the applications, with a view to selection, has been in progress for a long time past. The form of application in use tabulates very fully the education and experience of an applicant, and from this the board of selection, which met last year over 200 are from persons possessing technical training or library experience, or both, including graduates from the library schools at Albany, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and at the University of Illinois, or directly experienced in the work of the great libraries of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and elsewhere, so that the difficulty has been not to secure the qualifications necessary to the technical work, but to select from a surplus of qualified candidates. There are nearly a dozen of the applicants of whom direct knowledge has been gained in the volunteer service, which existed during a portion of the past year.

"The appointments are to be made upon the same method as the few that have been made during the past several months. A preliminary written examination is to be held. For each position to be filled an applicant has to be selected whose qualifications and experience appear the most promising. He will be offered opportunity to work on pay, but also on probation, for a period of three to six months. His capacity will thus be tested in actual work. This test will be his examination. At the end of the probationary period the library definitely ceases unless a decision be then reached to retain him in the regular service. The few appointments to positions requiring less degree of technical training or library experience are included among those listed above."

CEMETERIES IN PORTO RICO.

Order Issued Based on Recommendations of the Board of Health.

General Davis, commanding the department of Porto Rico, has issued a general order concerning the government of cemeteries on the island. His action is based on the recommendation of the judicial board and the board of health. It is provided that all cemeteries and all extensions of cemeteries constructed from public funds shall be civil in character, and that on or before June 30 next each municipality shall provide within its limits at least one civil cemetery, which shall be available to the burial of all persons who die in the municipality. Graves or lots in such cemeteries may be sold for the interment of the remains of individuals or families, but a sufficient area must be set apart for the free interment and proper burial of the remains of the poor and indigent, and no person shall be buried in a cemetery now in use and all disturbances are prohibited after the 30th of June except under prescribed conditions, chief of which is that in certain cases new interments may be made when possible without disturbing the remains of human beings previously buried.

It is made the duty of every alcalde to see that the cemeteries within his jurisdiction are maintained in a decent condition and that the public health is not endangered by the want of proper supervision, in accordance with the law and regulations. The board of health is authorized to prohibit interment in any cemetery if in its judgment the healthfulness of the municipality would thereby be threatened. Nothing in General Davis' order is intended to prevent the burial of the existing family vaults or properly constructed and properly supervised vaults, but no cemetery is to be established within the built-up portions of any city, town or village or where any stream of water or spring may thereby be contaminated. Whenever a cemetery is an obstruction to the development of a city or town it is to be removed, and the board of health, in which event it must be closed and discontinued as a burial place.

Provision is made for the registration of all interments, and it is also provided that any person committing an act of vandalism in a cemetery shall be punished on conviction by a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $500 or by imprisonment for not more than two years or by both fine and imprisonment.

THE SIEGE OF LADYSMITH.

Fractions of Ounces in Rations for the Men.

Ladysmith Correspondence London Leader.

A recital of the choppings and changes our allowances have undergone tells the story of the troubles the inner man underwent. Poor inner man, his lot was a sorry one. About the 20th instant the issue of horseflesh, both in the raw and "ragged" state, was stopped on account of so many men falling ill from its effects. Four days later half horse, half ox was again the ration, it being explained that we had plenty of bullocks, but that they were required to provide some nice prime fresh beef for our rescuers on their arrival.

Then our half a pound of bread degenerated from an agglomeration of flour, maize and Indian cereal to plain maize, with starch to stick the coarsely ground chunks together—still, with the luxury of maize and starch was in its turn turned into a change was a slightly increased allowance of this bread supplemented by three ounces of ground maize for porridge on "bread days" and a full pound of biscuits on "biscuit days."

"This is the best news we have had of our country," cried everybody enthusiastically. One pound of breadstuffs per day! There never were such times! But, alas, concoction of ground maize and starch was in its turn turned into a change was a slightly increased allowance of this bread supplemented by three ounces of ground maize for porridge on "bread days" and a full pound of biscuits on "biscuit days."

Salvator Potts, a civil and mechanical engineer, was found dead in his apartment at 1000 C Street, Washington, Tuesday with a bullet wound through the heart.

considerably affected the men. There has been no recrudescence of fever or serious affections since my last letter, but minor complaints, all of them traceable to our hard living, are still prevalent.

From The New York Herald.

There has been prevailing the last few weeks a curious complication of grip in the shape of deep-seated inflammation of the ear, which is attended with severe pain and considerable swelling of the affected part. The cause of the special trouble is supposed to be the invasion of the inner ear by the grip microbe through the tissues of the throat.

Why the original disease should take on such a disposition, contrary to what has been noted before, is hard to explain. In the majority of cases the secondary inflammation can be abated by prompt palliative local treatment, while in exceptional cases, as in that of Dr. Kimball, whose death was reported yesterday, there is a tension of the process not only to the internal chambers of the ear, but to the membranes of the brain.

The force of the supposition is generally spent upon the protuberant bony process posterior to the auditory opening, and when such a condition exists the only relief to be obtained is by an operation of perforation of the involved structures, which gives vent to the pent-up secretions.

The hearing of strange noises to which the patient was subject in the earlier part of his illness, so far from being an uncommon occurrence under the circumstances, is one of the usual symptoms which attend the deeply seated inflammations of the region in question. It is even present in ordinary earache and usually precedes the rupture of the drum membrane, which occasions the discharge so often associated with the temporary relief of pain.
